Your questions answered in brief

Who exactly will be providing my removal service?

We work in partnership with reputable local removal companies and have developed a responsive, flexible and high quality removals service.

Will my removal be a 'man with van?'

Certainly not! Our removal partners are members of the British Association of Removers.

When should I start thinking about my removal?

You should consider your removal as soon as possible as this is often left to the last minute. This in turn can lead to problems in arranging moving dates and finding a reliable company.

We see so many problems on the day of moving which, with a little planning, could easily be avoided.

Manning Stainton's removal service is designed to link the actual move with your ongoing sales progress.

Does the Manning Stainton removal service include a packing option?

Yes. At Manning Stainton when we say we are here to 'help you move' we really mean it!

Is there a charge for initial advice on my removal?

No. We can provide a free quotation and survey as your sale proceeds.
